

About the Contributors

Richard Fotheringham teaches drama and media studies at the University of Queensland, and is currently studying Australian Theatre and Films in the period 1880—1920. He has just completed twelve months research into the Australian Archives' holdings of files relating to copyright applications.

Christine Shervington was appointed the inaugural University Archivist at The University of Western Australia in 1979. She trained as a Librarian and Archivist in the J S Battye Library of West Australian History where she worked from 1969 to 1974. She is an active member of the Perth Regional Branch and currently secretary of the 1987 6th Biennial Conference Planning Committee.

Colin Smith BA (Adelaide) Dip Arch Admin (UNSW) has been the Archivist of the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization since 1978. He was previously employed at the Archives of Business and Labour at the Australian National University, and at the Australian Archives.